

This IP Innovation Can Revolutionise the Industry

Developed by a well-known NZ based research scientist / innovator, the Intellectual Property our Vendor is offering for sale to an approved purchaser could turn a number of industries on their ear with definite global advantages no other producer will be able to emulate without this Intellectual Property.

This new and very revolutionary New Zealand researched and developed intellectual property shocked the Laboratory Testing Unit when they tested the products. After retesting 3 times, they had to believe what they were seeing.

To demonstrate complete confidence in the IP, and to ensure that all the opportunities are maximised, the Vendor is happy to retain a 20% ongoing interest in the business with the Purchaser who will likely already be a key player in Entrepreneurial circles with a passion to take new products in new categories to market – particularly, but not necessarily, in the cosmetics and beverages industries.

This is a very tightly held one-off opportunity and can only be sold once – with possible future Licensing opportunities to be taken advantage of.
